In 2011, the Arizona College Access Network (AzCAN) convened a Student Standards Task Force (Task Force) to define college and career readiness for Arizona students. In a landscape with increasing higher education costs and limited financial resources, college access programs and school educational staff need the best tools to ensure students complete postsecondary education and continue on to succeed in careers and their lives. A critical part of that includes understanding what it takes — and what it means — for a student to become college and career ready.

The Task Force – composed of practitioners and experts in secondary education, higher education, community-based organizations, and workforce development – developed the College Access Standards for Student Success, which supports the overarching goal of helping all Arizona students succeed in life. Each AzCAN Standard includes a set of knowledge and behavior competencies that enable students to be college and career ready when they graduate from high school.

The AzCAN Standards also align with the National College Attainment Network (NCAN) Common Measures.

Developed in 2012, the NCAN Common Measures articulate for the college access and success field a set of common outcomes to track student progress toward postsecondary enrollment and completion. Taken together, the AzCAN Standards and the NCAN Common Measures provide a consistent language about what students need to become college and career ready, and how to track their progress.
